I'm here

like branches moved by the wind

I shake my arms towards you.

Come on! Go up on my feet,

they are the roots that hold up your light body.

Stroke me, my hair is like leaves that fall down with firsts cold.

And now sit down with me, I want to rest until the day of the rebirth will come.

The tree is the hand, the arm is the trunk.

Leaves are hair

that hide the nest of my home.

It is the sun that warms me

It is the rain that refreshes me.

To sleep, to die, may be...

The life cycle is completed and you my little you are inside and outside me.

We have thought at the tree like the symbol of the roundness of life, in which every singular existence, find its reason.

At the beginning the scene is empty.

From a seed the place of the theater fills up.

Life is the breath in the time.
